AME

The city of a^me is the most candid city one could see in their dreams. A city is full of heartfelt emotions which could also be seen. A city is more trustworthy than drinking water. Where there is no single trace of darkness but the only abundance of light. Where there is no judgement, no body shaming or any materialistic love. The love felt here is so angelic that the depth can't be measured on any scale. This city where people fall in love through souls and not bodies. An environment where there is a heart to heart magnetic force.

There is no fat, dark, ugly. These terms are a part of their fashion. Where each morning a human can choose different body, features, colors. But at night what remains is the soul which can be seen by each one. The red balloon below the chest which keeps dancing, shining and attracting. The souls are never dull or dark but always shining glitter cheering everyone around. Even the palest souls swallow the magic brick which is a deep violet shade as their way to shine better. People of this city fall in love by seeing each other's truest soul.

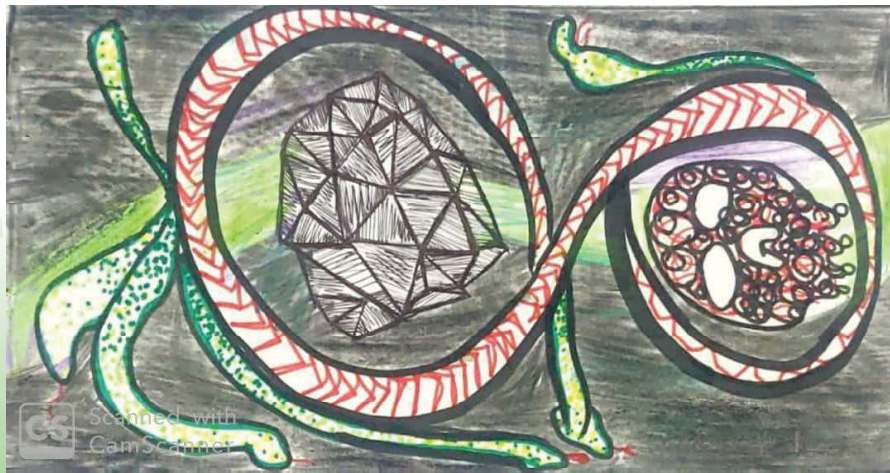

The red dancing balloon is also a very important part. Each and every person's dreams very different and they choose their most real passion. Where the heart starts to break dancing. A place where no one can actually force you to follow a certain career path. The heart is also a very important asset and hence requires treatment care and maintenance. Therefore, drop sleep is the best form where people are put to sleep in a hanging position.

The snakes who don't let you die but face that fear and one stays in trauma until the next one.

The only way to get out of this forever night mere is to wait for a wish from the festival. To wait for the zenith wish that someone sends in order to forgive you. But who will forgive you for betrayal the wait here is immortal because decades pass the forgiver dies and the sinner is stuck forever in this green hell.

MEDUSA

This is the city of Medusa. Yes, the women with snakes but this land is full of snakes. This is the obverse side of the flipped city. That mainly doesn't let you die or escape. The power they have is to sting so hard that you mourn for death but can't have it.

This sky of the city is not so black as the darkness of this city. The sky illuminates green light the whole year reminding people who are stuck because of their greed and envious acts. This city is full of pokey roads so the one who tries to escape their house which is no less than a prison. The house with no ventilation or light one moves with by hands as their barriers. Food is an irregularity and the food you get is also equal to no food. The biggest torture here apart from these is the mirror. In this city for decades, people haven't seen themselves. They have forgotten who they are or how do they look. The mirror in this city has the darkest secret which has been known for years but people still get stuck in the mirage of remembering themselves. When one sees the mirror a fraction of joy later the hypnotism makes you believe your worst fear is confounded. That's when you get an attack and immediately try to kill yourselves but that is also not allowed.

Every night this city doesn't require any stars but the glitter in souls lights up the city and days a blossomed by different bodies and colorful clothes. Where confusion is no question and truth is the only answer.

FLIPPED CITY

This is the flipped city as we can relate to it. A city where are our magic themes are live. This is where the gravity is on the top where all houses stay and the sky is our ground.

This is a place where one can relax and breathe pure air. But the aromatic sugary candy fragrance which never leaves the sky because of the marshmallow clouds. But what adds to this sweet feel is the colorful sprinkle of wave. A city where the unicorn is the only medium of transport. Where after each meal of cotton candies the fluffy white unicorns releases airy rainbow which has the perfect amount of glitter to add shine to the day. So all times during the day we can actually spot small flows of rainbow adding colors. The roads here are made of trampoline making it fun at the same time a good form of exercise.

. One clothes here are made from an inbuilt float system so that they don't fall deeper in the sky and get lost. Because still the deeper sky excavations are being executed by archaeologists. The houses which are on the top are anchored to the ground so they don't start floating. The scuba life is the most exciting where all the fishes fly high. Their nests are built in caves. The most exciting sport here is scuba diving where one needs to reach the top of the water with submarine to dive deeper. One needs to always have a hot air balloon while scuba diving to land appropriately.

The opposite of it is the black tree which takes away memories. Lastly, this city obviously has a requirement of transferring the house at all times of day hence each house is inside a huge basket of a hot air balloon. To make it easy to fly and park through the anchor.

TIMES CITY

This is the time's city. A city where a person can experience day, night and twilight at the same time. This is a flexible hour city that never lets you be late or miss out on anything in life.

Starting with the day side which is a palette of warm colours that illuminate over the blue sky. There is always a sense of warmth that never goes away. This is the part where one can do all the activities of the day. Be it fishing, finding chocolates or even the infants trying to ride the unicorn. The dark side of the city which is not so dark because of the changing geometrical shapes of the moon. That never lets you be alone or sad. It is the center of the universe that winks at you that talks to you silently. There are no stars in this city because each person here is a gem. But the midnight sky is still full of surprises. Each night like bathing in the hot lava full of minerals is a ritual similarly medicating is an integral part. This is where people present their gratitude their thoughts and dreams and wishes. But what resides with them daily is the magic where everyone wishes for this gift every night which shouldn't be bigger than 12 by 12 inches. They manifest their thoughts and before sleeping, that is why we see a sky full of metallic color spheres. They are the magic boxes where manifestations come true. So when we leave the night there is a gift at our doorstep. There is a crack of twilight as a doorway to day and night slice of the city. This part which is the most important part for the artists where both warm and cool tones meet showing a perfect combination of artist and the art. This is said to be the the part of the city with a mixer of both sad and blissful times. This is the place where sinful people are sent to medusa. This place where the good-byes not only temporary the unforgettable ones are felt. This is the place of birth among the magical roots of the auspicious tree that sheds golden leaves and blesses each soul.

This city is what I believe is the seed of inspiration to any artist. Who can observe so many colors each day? The blissfulness here is so infinite that some people even die early because laughter is the best medicine but too much laughter can also cause death. Because of all excess pass.

WINGED BEACH

This is the winged beach. This is more like a spa city. The shape of the beach is in a perfect winged angle. This is not the usual seawater beach and salty mineral sand but much more one can imagine.

The first rule of the beach is to enter in a crawling position to flex that jammed body. The other reason being the city has day polygons which are not less than flavored skittles which are at our chest level so the one who walks gets a few hits upper body gets down on this knees sooner. This is where you can crawl and reward yourself with all kinds of poly. The fun fact about these polys is that they disappear at night where people enjoy the sparkling water. Then comes the pungent fumes of the champagne which are our water bodies. One can taste apply and pamper their hair with it. Being a spa beach the renewable solution which we incorporated here is the massaging waves. The waves here are the massaging seats to soothe each angle of our body. Which cleanses is dirt from head to toe and flows back to the obverse side. Coming to the soothing beach which is no more dull more ok khaki color but a deep soil brown, not even mud but coffee. This place where people crawl and scrub their legs and the rest of the body while relaxing. The exfoliating agent here is so redolent one can't get enough. Often weekdays are full and weekends is an abanded island.

Lastly, while leaving this place which one requires acceptance to understand that there is more to life before they get the goodbye suspense of a dry moisturizing sweet coconut spray which is a mixture of coconut essence and some glitter.
